

Anders Weidemann

Anders Weidemann is the creator and showrunner of the Emmy Award nominated TV series 30 Degrees in February. His unique writing talent paired with an extensive knowledge of the TV landscape has resulted in award-winning productions such as The Truth About Marika (Emmy Award for 'Best Interactive TV Series' 2008) and 30 Degrees in February (winner of a Kristallen award for 'Best Screenplay', nominated for an Emmy Award in 2013). One of Weidemann's latest productions Monky, which premiered in 2017, quickly became that year's most popular family feature film.

Weidemann is, together with John Mankiewicz (House of Cards, Bosch), creator and executive producer of Interrogation which premiered on CBS All Access in February 2020 and has since received great praise in American press. Weidemann is the first Swedish screenwriter in history to write and produce an American TV series based on his own original idea. Interrogation follows a Los Angeles-area murder case that stretches from 1983 to 2009 and the series structured so that, with the exception of the first and final episode, viewers can watch episodes in any order, trying to piece the evidence together for themselves.

Weidemann is writer of HBO's Beartown, which premiered in 2020 to fantastic reviews. The acclaimed series is based on Fredrik Backman's bestselling novel of the same name.

On top of holding writing credits for numerous television productions and short films, Weidemann has also worked as head of drama development at Jarowskij Sweden and as story editor for SVT.
