

Frank Kjosås

Norwegian actor Frank Kjosås (b. 1981) is one of today's most interesting and versatile talents in Scandinavia.

Kjosås got his cinematic break in 2008 with House of Fools and Troubled Water, and his unique acting skills has since gotten him cast in significant roles in both films and TV shows, such as the immensely popular and awarded The Heavy Water: Stopping Hitler's Atomic Bomb, EXIT and Halvbroren, for which he won both a Golden Screen and a Golden FIPA for 'Best Actor'.

Kjosås has been widely admired for his chameleon-like acting abilities by critics and viewers alike and praised for his fascinating way of being able to switch expressions from warmth and innocence to threatening coldness in the blink of an eye.

2024 will see Kjosås in multiple film and TV productions including the Netflix drama Billionaire Island, hailed for its potential to be the Norwegian answer to the hit drama Succession, as well as Havnaa, the highly anticipated Norwegian film inspired by the gripping real-life story of the notorious boxing brothers Erling and Magne Havnaa.
