

Gjermund Stenberg Eriksen

Gjermund Stenberg Eriksen is the creator and show-runner of Norwegian hit TV series, Mammon (2014-2016).

Mammon, which first aired on Norwegian broadcaster NRK, became an internationally recognized show with great reviews as well as an average of 1.3 million viewers per episode, the second highest TSR-rating on NRK to that date. The Guardian proclaimed the show to be “exactly what you want from Scandinavian quality crime.”

Mammon won an International Emmy Award in the category for ‘Best Drama’ in 2017 for its second season. Mammon was also nominated for the prestigious ‘Best returning drama series’ at the 2016 C21 International Drama Awards and won ‘Best Mini-Series’ at the 2014 Seoul International Drama Awards for its first season. The show reached international success and has been remade into Mamon in the Czech Republic and Pakt in Poland by HBO Europe.

Eriksen is furthermore creator of the light-hearted legal series Aber Bergen (2016).

2020 saw the premiere of Eriksen’s highly innovative comedic noir series For Life. The series is set in two timelines: in present day, as we follow investigator Victoria Woll, solving cases and putting criminals behind bars, and in the future, when she herself has been incarcerated.

Eriksen is additionally the creator and showrunner of Fury, a thriller series about the fight against right-wing extremism in Europe’s ever polarizing political climate. Fury premiered on Viaplay September 2021 and is his fourth show in seven years.
