

Selma Vilhunen

Acclaimed Finnish filmmaker Selma Vilhunen has rapidly gained international success with her feature films, shorts and documentaries. One of Vilhunen's signature traits is an ability to capture big, fundamental emotions using small, subtle gestures.

In 2014, Vilhunen received an Academy Award nomination in the category 'Best Live Action Short Film' for her festival hit Do I Have to Take Care of Everything? (2012), the second Finnish film in history to be nominated for an Academy Award.

Her fiction feature debut Little Wing (2016), both written and directed by Vilhunen, premiered at the Toronto International Film Festival and went on to play at more than 50 festivals around the world. It received wonderful reviews and was, among many prizes and nominations, awarded the Nordic Council Film Prize 2017.

Vilhunen's most recent documentary, Hobbyhorse Revolution (2017), premiered at the Tampere Film Festival and won the main prize in national competition, the Risto Jarva Main Prize. It was also the winner of 'Best Documentary' at the 2018 Jussi Awards.

Her feature, Stupid Young Heart (2018), a warm and raw drama about suburban teenagers, won the Best Pitch Award at the Finnish Film Affair. The film had its world premiere at the Toronto International Film Festival, where it was very well received, and went on to win the Crystal Bear for 'Best Youth Film' at the 2019 Berlinale.

In 2018, The Finnish Ministry of Education and Culture awarded Vilhunen the Finnish National Prize. The prestigious prize acknowledges a significant artistic career, achievement or promising breakthrough.

Vilhunen's latest feature film Four Little Adults had its world premiere at the International Film Festival Rotterdam, and was selected for their Big Screen Competition. Four Little Adults then travelled to Göteborg Film Festival where it was nominated for the Dragon Award - 'Best Nordic Film.'
